

Medical Device Positioning Playbook

This playbook captures the agency approach to positioning work for medical device clients, drawn from prior engagements across cardiac and orthopedic device makers.

The core method moves a client from a prestige-led narrative toward a defensible value narrative grounded in clinical and economic outcomes, which procurement teams can justify. This pattern has recurred across multiple medical device positioning projects and informs how we approach new brand refresh work.